

When Benjamin Life's essay: The Ancient Future at the End of History - The World After Separation was sent to me, I restacked it with a note that it is “the most important thing I’ve read for years.”

I then wrote a Substack post On Reading "The Ancient Future at the End of History" - A Review, from the Council Fire.

My old friend Davide Nicastro then responded with an important critique of Life's essay which, I feel, unpacks and extends the “note of caution” in my review and helps complete Life's thesis.

Rev. Ganga Devi Braun then restacked my review with a beautiful note which brought my review to Benjamin Life's attention and he then wrote his own comment on my review completing the circle.

I cannot recommend Benjamin's essay highly enough and then, if you're interested the reviews and comments.
